

Returning to Learning Changing Lives

Returning to school has done good things for me. I returned to school because I knew I would not get very far in life without my GED. Returning to school has also changed my life for the better. It has made me feel that I can do anything I want if I put my mind to it. School has helped me discover new goals for my future.

I dropped out of school to go to work. I worked for a couple of years and then realized I made a mistake. I was working a low paying, dead end job. I needed an education, so I could get a well-paying job. I knew the first step to have a better life was to return to school. I needed to get my GED because I am interested in becoming an aircraft mechanic.

Returning to school has helped me find my way. It has helped me make new goals for my future. I have changed my mind a couple of times about the career I want to pursue. First, I wanted to be a paramedic, but I soon changed my mind. I now know I would rather join the military and become a proud member of the air force.

Returning to school to get my GED has done great things for me. I have learned many valuable lessons. I have made some new lifelong friends. Being back in school has given me a sense of accomplishment because I stuck with it, and I didn't give up. I just completed my GED, and I am proud of myself!

These are the reasons why I returned to school. My life has changed for the better since I have been going to school to get my GED. Without the guidance and support from my teacher, I don't think I would have set such goals. It has been the best decision I have made to return to school to get my GED. Now that I completed my GED, I will join the military. I am happy that I will have a career that I will enjoy.

Kyle Butler

Teacher: Kelly Coleman